I have discovered a treasure
Only fully known by those
Who have seen hidden beauty
Within the strong,
Within the silent,
Within each of you.

I have grown
As our lives have touched,
Making me whole.

You made me see
What is not always visible.
You created in me
a new season . . .
It is the SEASON OF HOPE

I remember
The first days
Of school,
Many new faces
As apprehensive
As mine.

I remember
Upperclassmen looking so big
And so intelligent, and me, wondering
If I could find my way.

I remember
How it felt inside to be a loner,
To want good and trusting friends, yet
Not wanting to be classified and closed.

Sometimes
I felt like I was trying so hard to be happy.
And then I made a discovery . . .
Happiness is not found in a material world.
First I had to find it in little things
And smile, and spread an enthusiasm,
Not for something superficial,
But for something deep within me.

Day after day
Discovering
New ideas,
Watching
The seasons change,
Like being here
Has changed me,
Whether I felt
A part and alive
Or if I'd fallen
On winter ground.

People
Became my source
Of caring
As I saw so many,
Dedicated, involved
In all aspects,
Some glorious,
Many hard-working
Without recognition,
But with much Satisfaction.

I saw many people
 Become frustrated
 Because of
 School or sports
 And the fact they Became frustrated
 At least showed
 They cared.

I remember the highly strong
 And spirited times
 When everyone realized and showed
 How much Saint Vincent High School
 Meant to them.

To become involved
 Traps many rewards inside
 For knowledge and understanding
 Can only be taught through experience.

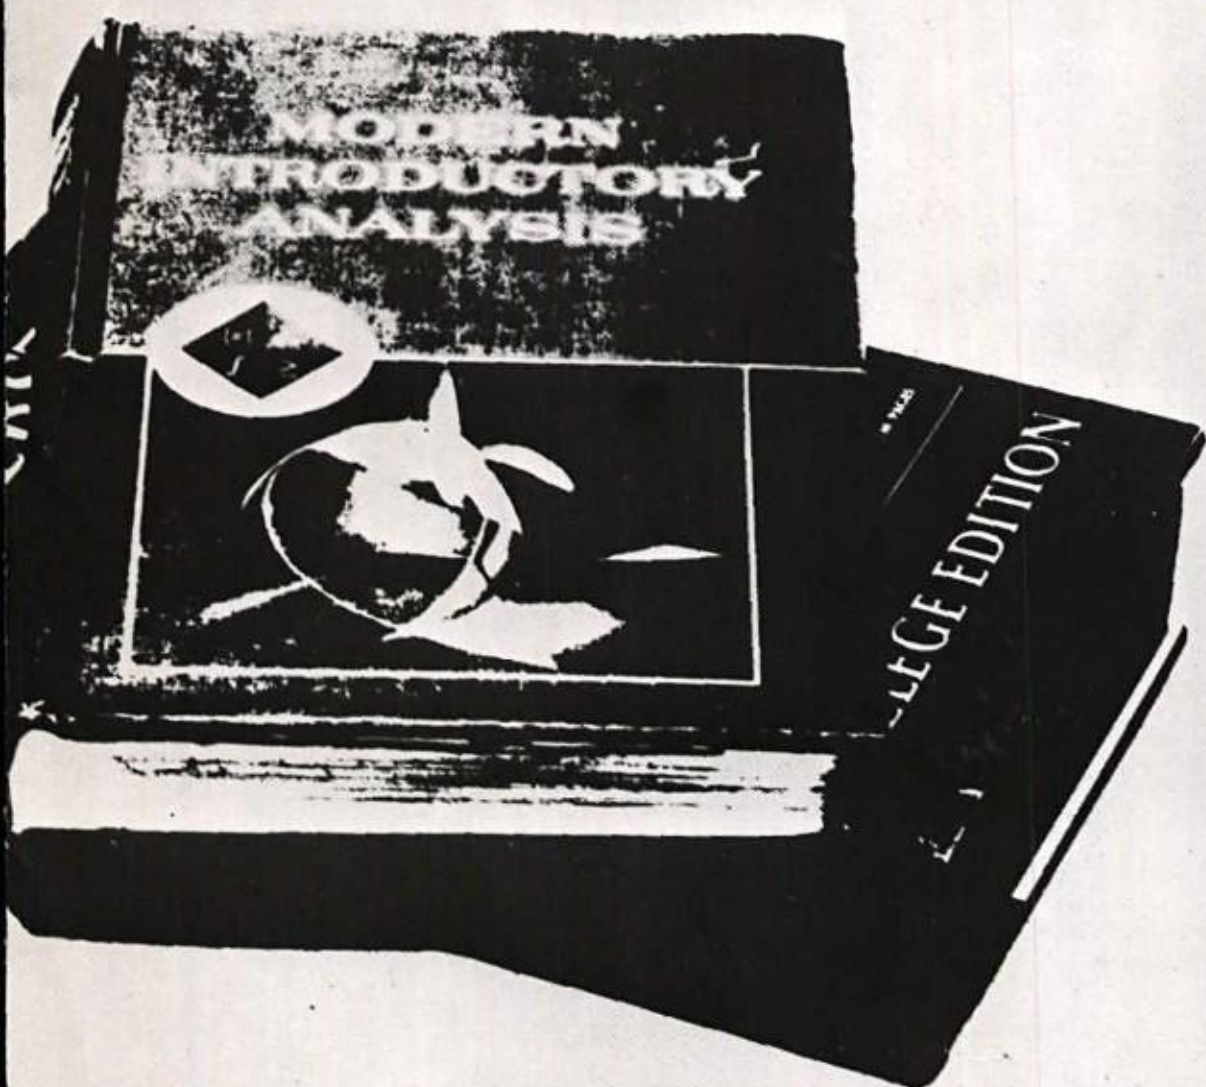

Through the years
The friendships
I made
And the lesson
I learned in Human relations
Can never be Replaced,
For I truly
Experienced
What it means
To be IRISH.
"Care
And your heart
May be broken,
But you will learn
To see."
It is the SEASON OF HOPE.

ACADEMICS

Part of a busy day for Mrs. Csonka, school secretary, is answering numerous calls.

Fulfilling his newly acquired position as Dean of Students is head football coach and athletic director Mr. John Cistone. Communication is one of the Dean's primary responsibilities.

Immersed in paper work is the attendance secretary, Miss Susan Roetzel. Miss Roetzel produces the absentee and detention lists that serve to keep St. V. students on the spot.

Administrative role expands with inauguration of Dean of Students and Attendance Secretary

Added this year to the administrative function were two new positions. Appointed Dean of Students was Mr. John Cistone, whose job it was to maintain discipline and to counsel the students. Named as attendance secretary was Miss Susan Roetzel who was responsible for processing late slips, checking attendance, and answering telephone calls or correspondence pertaining to absentees. These two positions gave the other administrative members more time for their own particular functions.

The pressing matters of administrative duties belong to Fr. Vincent Moraghan, Director, and

Sr. Marie Hohman, Principal. For Father, checking financial statements is only a small part of the day's work, while for Sister, it's the up-dating of student transcripts.

Math courses prepare many students for

The expressions seen on students' faces range from knowledgeable self-satisfaction to utter disbelief when they enter the complicated world of mathematics. Among the current courses designed to challenge the minds of our students are algebra, geometry, trigonometry, calculus and a new class in computer programming. The subject matter covered in these courses is largely college preparatory. It is formulated to acquaint the pupil with the essential principles vital to further understanding of material on a more advanced level.

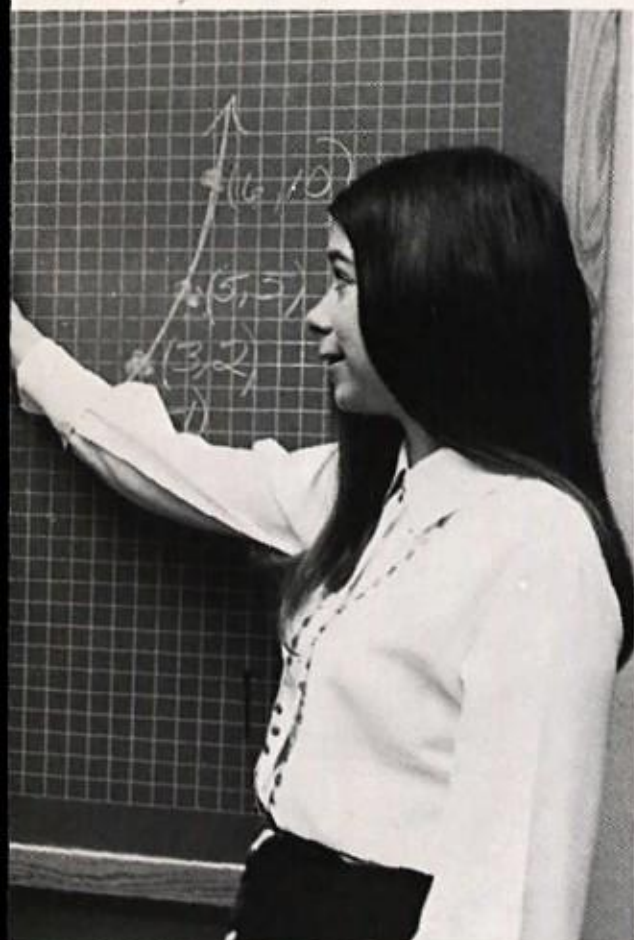

Faculty members in the math department include Mrs. Patricia DeJacimo, Fundamental Math and Math I; Mrs. Mary Anne Wojno, Math I and Advanced Math I; Mr. Gary Helsel, Math II and Advanced Math II; and Mr. Michael Bolus, Math III, Advanced Math III and Math IV. College-bound students graduating from St. Vincent need feel no trepidation at the prospect of further investigation of the complexities of numbers.

To program the computer successfully seems to be the purpose behind the meeting of two mathematically oriented minds such as those of Mr. Gary Helsel and Mrs. M. A. Wojno.

Mrs. Luanne Richardson, instructor for the Western Thought independent study course for upperclassmen, listens attentively to a discussion in a World History class.

Man, his achievements, his ideology, his dreams, and his aspirations, were all of concern to teachers and students participating in the Social Studies program. Freshmen broadened grade school knowledge of man's progress through World History. The study of American History enabled juniors to examine the foundations of the United States which account for its present and prestige.

A semester each of sociology and government helped the seniors to better understand their role in our society. World Geography enabled students interested in the topography of continents to further their knowledge.

New to this year's curriculum was Western Thought, an independent study course, designed for the student who wished to devote his free time to develop an appreciation for the culture of the western world.

Phys. ed. routine includes gymnastics

In previous years, girls physical education was available only as a required course for freshmen and sophomores. This year, a physical education elective was offered to junior and senior girls interested in athletics and physical fitness.

Some of the sports undertaken in these classes included practices in tumbling, basketball, volleyball, skiing, badminton, and track. Through these activities, girls gained a greater understanding of physical fitness, stamina, and sports.

What do you see? Four body-less girls? An abstract design? A study in geometric forms?

Wrong. Just a human cartwheel in progress, compliments of slowmotion photography.

helping each other out, especially in activities like tumbling and acrobatics.

An important function of an institution of learning is to further the growth of the art of communication.

The music department, under the guidance of Mr. Richard Cryder, helped students to develop an awareness and appreciation for musical expression. Offered this year for the first time was an independent study course, General Music. This program enabled students to devote their free time to the study of classical and modern music.

Also included in the courses offered by the department are freshman and senior chorus and an instrumental program for the band and orchestra.

An equally effective aid in the development of the ability to express ideas was speech class, taught by Sr. Christine. This survey course contained an introduction to various speaking situations and techniques.

Keeping the marching band in step with the music is sophomore drum major Al Elam.

Home Economics Survey aimed to help girls become proficient in domestic skills. As a prelude to Food and Clothing the following year, Home Ec teaches a girl the basics of home and family care, such as cooking, sewing and home nursing. With the knowledge gained in these classes senior Monica Warmenhoven was named the Betty Crocker "Homemaker of the Year" representative for St. Vincent.

strates the delicate art of washing pots, pans, and platters in Food and Clothing.

Dick Pitts, Sean Brennan, and Joe Leskanic converse informally with Father Cozzens.

The counseling department branched into several new areas this year. Under the guidance of Sr. Jeanette, group counseling sessions were organized for the freshmen to deal with home and school problems.

Two counselors were added to the staff: Mrs. Florence Clark of the Catholic Service League who spent several days a week in group and individual counseling sessions and Father Donald Cozzens, assigned to St. Vincent parish and high school.

A student deposits her request for a counseling appointment with Father Cozzens in a pocket

Life in any science class was filled with research, experiments and lab reports for students at every level. A course in earth science covering geology and astronomy was available for the freshmen, as well as the required subject health, which included memorizing the names of bones and making diagrams.

For the sophomores science took the form of biology with its long Latin words, "creepy" specimens, and insect collections.

Chemistry provided a difficult, but interesting, exploration into the world of matter and energy for the upperclassmen. A course in physical science on the basics of chemistry and physics was also available.

Physics, the most advanced science course, was for seniors with a good background in math and science.

A peek through the library window reveals freshman Tony Starvaggi lost in thought.

Teaching students to read and comprehend a maximum amount of material in a minimum amount of time occupies Mrs. Yahner as she clocks an engrossed student.

The library provided many new facilities to aid students in their homework. Aside from reference books, filmstrips and records, the library furnished literature in the form of pamphlets and books concerning today's problems, such as drugs, for student use in reports.

The learning Center, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Yahner, proved invaluable in helping students increase their reading efficiency. The SRA reading laboratories, TACH-X and Controlled Reader devices enabled students to boost reading speed and improve skills.

Business students learn skills of modern systems

"Where did that money go, anyway?" wonders Giannina Pianalto as she checks her ledger.

Mrs. Marilyn Bauer smiles as she proceeds to explain for the "umteenth" time that the little finger does not belong on the "g" key to an attentive student in typing class.

Secretarial Practice students Pola Mackey and Kathy Lynch try to look experienced as they frantically decipher what all the lines, squiggles, and curvatures mean.

The skills and pressures of the business world were applied to many of this year's business classes. In the Bookkeeping course, taught by Mr. Larry Naymik, students were required to record transactions, prepare capital statements, and generally keep the financial status of an imaginary business on record.

Mr. Phillip Kaufmann's lesson plan for Business Law classes included a trip to the county court house and participation in a mock trial headed by students from Akron University.

Under Mrs. Bauer's direction the Typing, Shorthand, Personal Typing, Secretarial Practice and General Business students learn first-hand the important techniques employed in today's modern business system.

Modern innovations in curriculum, in worship, and in retreats enhance religion programs

In order to attain a more personal involvement in the Mass, freshman religion classes participate in services, led by Father Moraghan, in the convent chapel.

Utilizing their spare time during the retreat to get in practice for the next day's contemporary Mass are juniors Peggy Moore, Maureen Baker, and Mariam Beesing.

Helping to provide meals for the active juniors during retreat is Sharon McDowell.

Religion department instructors, Mr. Joseph Feran and Sr. M. Josette, O.P., employ varied techniques used in their classes to convey modern concepts in theology.

Innovation characterized this year's religion courses and activities. Freshmen and sophomores employed visual aids to reinforce contemporary theology. A weekend retreat at Camp Christopher scheduled by the juniors included a Mass planned solely by the students. The seniors invited special guests to speak on pertinent topics, such as, civil disobedience and drugs.

Student leadership promotes progress

On Thursday, December 17, 1970, the junior class officially entered the ranks as Irishmen when they held their tradition-breaking ring ceremony in the Social Center.

A contemporary Mass was celebrated by Fathers Cozzens and Moraghan and was followed by a breakfast. Slides were shown of the juniors involved in academics and activities since their freshman year.

Officially organized as a class, the sophomores approached this year with a spirit of dedication. Under the leadership of their class and council officers, the sophomores actively took part in all aspects of St. V. life.

Helping to guide the freshmen in their first student council elections, the sophomores collected and tabulated votes. On St. Patrick's day the lower halls were bedecked in green and white, thanks to sophomore pride, creativity, and initiative.

Spearheading the junior class are officers, Trish Barlow, V-P 1971; Mary Beth Halaiko, V-P 1970; Jim Aidala, treasurer; secretary, Micki Bartynski; and president Tom Leffler.

Discussions of the previous weekend seem to interest the junior boys as they refuel on their

The fact that English is one of the few required courses seemed a little easier to bear this year because of the variety of curricular innovations initiated. In freshman English, content shifted to emphasize new learning techniques and better reading comprehension. Due to newly instituted semester courses, sophomores were able to study composition and literature on a more detailed level.

Radical changes took place in junior and senior English where quarter courses were introduced. This program, which offered classes in literature, individualized reading, composition, and communication arts, was more diversified than in previous years. World Literature was available for the benefit of the more advanced students for two semesters.

Juniors J. Tomei, C. Sullivan and E. Elam use SRA cards to boost their reading skills.

Sr. M. Benita, freshman English instructor, reads with Bob Davis and Denny Howald.

What's this? A new fashion? No, it's "Les Cathérinettes" that the French IV class created for St. Catherine's Day. Modeling their hats are seniors Giannina Pianalto, Barb Maltarich, and

Rosanna Pianalto, while Sister Rosalia admires the creations.

Giving students an impression of life in other parts of the world was emphasized by this year's language department. With the aid of film clips and tapes obtained from the learning center, first and second year language students learned the fundamentals of their chosen tongue. Students majoring in a language course incorporated the use of novels, newspapers and magazines from the country they were studying. Sr. M. Rosalia headed the language department, which offered courses in French, Spanish and Latin.

Under the enthusiastic direction of Mrs. Joseph Wojno, junior volunteers engineered the renovation of the annual award night. This year's presentations were made at a cover-dish dinner for the recipients, their parents and the faculty. Guest of honor for the evening was St. V's future principal, Mr. Norman Saunders.

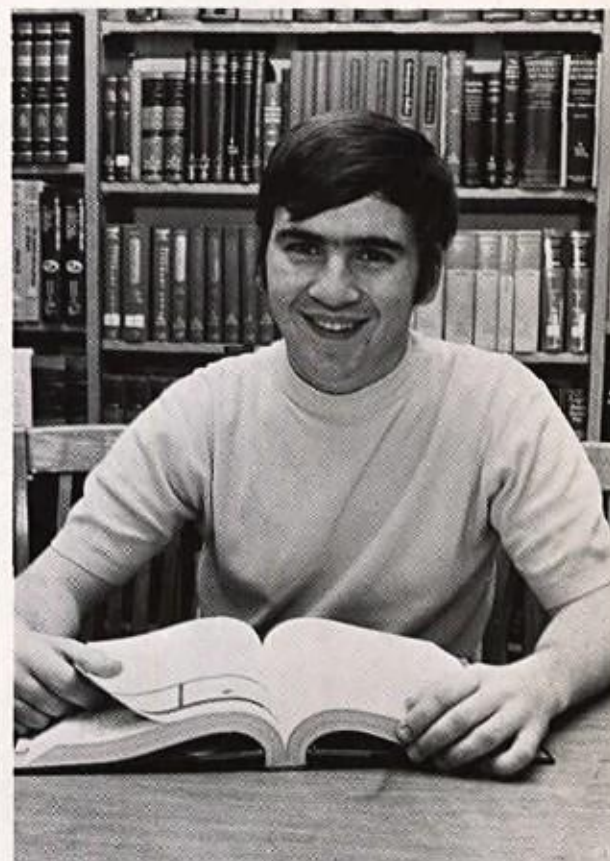

Becky DiAntonio was announced as class valedictorian. Other students recognized included outstanding bandmen Jim Dages and Monica Pfister. Joe Mellion received the Optimist Club award, while Joan Gilbride was honored for her achievement in Home Ec.

Award night spotlights senior talent

Annual science awards are given to the outstanding junior and the senior with the best overall science record. 1971 winners are junior Jim Aidala and senior Becky DiAntonio.

Winning essay contests on the topic of the handicapped is the specialty of senior Dennis Horan who was first in the district, second in the state this year; first in the district, fourth in the state a year ago.

Jim Aidala, Sandy Pianalto and Evita Elam, junior Buckeye Boys' and Girls' State representatives, make plans with last year's delegates, Eileen Lavery and Bill Johnson.

ACTIVITIES

Student council executes novel ideas

Besides serving as a co-ordinator between the student body and the faculty and carrying on the regular program of leadership, the Student Council sponsored a benefit exhibition basketball game featuring the WHLO Good Guys and the St. V. faculty.

Coached by Mr. Larry Naymik, the Irish players included Mr. O'Hare, Mr. Berger, Mr. Feran, Mr. Smith, Mr. Locke, Mr. Brubach, Mr. Helsel, Mr. Kaufmann, Mr. Vallecorsa, and Steve Jessie, an alumnus of St. V.

Leading the crowd were cheerleaders Mrs. Dunn, Miss Kaufmann, Sr. Anne, Sr. Christine, and Sr. Marilou.

Indulging in some liquid courage before doing battle with the WHLO Good Guys is Mr. Terry

Smith, flanked by his teammates Mr. Ralph Vallecorsa and Mr. Phil Kaufmann.

Irishmen create spirit on their own time

Wendy Hatala, Bill Bungard, Bob Brunner, Paul Grote, and Tom Mosher lift the spirits of Irish fans as they participate in the activities at the Walsh bonfire.

Spirit at St. V. was created both by groups and by individuals. Chiefly responsible for creating this spirit among the students was the Booster Club. Assisting them were the cheerleaders, who led the student body at games, bonfires, and rallies. The band greatly added to the entire spirit picture through their performances. Individually the Irish ignited and sustained spirit by painting signs, making floats, cheering at rallies, and attending the games to support the team.

Intent in performing a medley of original compositions is senior Tom Mosher who earned the second place award in the talent show.

Providing recognition for students who combine scholastic aptitude with service to their community and their school was the National Honor Society. The N.H.S. was led by officers Joe Mellion, Michelle Burg, Bob Bremer, and Lorrie Scarpellini.

Members of the N.H.S. perform in the vital job of tutoring students who are in need of help with their studies. Another of their various activities is the presentation of the annual St. Vincent Talent Show.

The Talent Show, held on April 2, featured nine acts which covered a wide range of abilities.

Varied club activities prime members

Several clubs and organizations at St. Vincent allow the student to further his interest in a variety of fields through diverse activities.

One of the groups, Future Medics, gives students a picture of life in the medical profession through the use of speakers, visual aids, and field trips. Future Teachers Association members practice as they learn by helping teachers in St. Vincent grade school. Bonfire ritual ignites smoldering spirit to psych

Head coach for the St. Vincent "Fighting Irish" football team, John Cistone, addresses

Cheerleaders, students, and team members all combine to make the bonfire rally a success.

Assistant varsity coach Herb Locke watches over the festivities at the bonfire rally.

Irish gridders in their confrontation with rival

Enthusiasm and anticipation set the mood for the annual rivalry with Walsh.

The hole is there but back Greg Thurmond is grabbed from behind unexpectedly from a Latin player. The Irish came from behind to beat the Lions from Cleveland 21-14.

Back Dick Pitts pauses momentarily for the line to open up, while end Bill Cornelius clears the right side with a crunching block on an East Liverpool opponent.

On the evening preceding the Walsh game, the Boosters held a bonfire to rally Irish spirit, since the Warriors have evolved into St. V.'s chief rival. During the night Irish spirit rose to fever-pitch when a mock Walsh player was burned in effigy. There to help build momentum were the cheerleaders, the band, the coaches, and many of the team members. Both the Walsh bonfire and the one held before the Hoban game created spirit that carried into each game.

NEOC, AA — add new twists to '70's

Irish football entered a new decade when St. Vincent became part of the newly formed Northeastern Ohio Conference (NEOC), composed of outstanding independent schools in the area: Archbishop Hoban, Warren Western Reserve, Barberton, Lorain Southview and Cuyahoga Falls. Coach John Cistone originated the idea in the preceding scholastic year and organized the group to function in 1970-71.

Coinciding with the formation of the new conference was the reclassifying of schools with those of largest enrollment grouped into a AAA class and schools like St. V. into a AA. Of the six schools in NEOC, only St. V. is in AA; the others are in AAA.

Irish record 2-8 mark against strong opposition

The Irish football season cannot be summarized in black and white, but in hues of gray. St. V.'s triumph over persistently troublesome Cathedral Latin and Homecoming foe East Liverpool merely lessened the pain of such as an opening loss to Falls, the frustrating effort against Barberton, and shutouts at the hands of Walsh and Hoban, coupled with defeats against city power East, traditionally easy Chanel, and state powers Warren Western Reserve and Massillon, team number one in AAA competition. The Fighting Irish experienced an overall disappointing grid year.

Individual recognition in the city went to defensive end Dane Griffith, all-NEOC middle guard Joe DiFeo, and all-NEOC tackle Bill Sparhawk, who was additionally honored by being named all-state in the UPI poll, and to the second AP team.

Senior tackle Bill Sparhawk, UPI All-State selection, breaks through the banner as the cheerleaders lead the Irish fans in a night of tremendous spirit for the Walsh game.

A night of eager anticipation yields a victory, a new queen

"Happiness is Homecoming" typified the mood at this year's game against the East Liverpool Potters on October 9. A windy evening at Green Street field provided the setting for the presentation of Michelle Burg as Homecoming Queen and her crown-er, Lorrie Scarpellini. In order to create an atmosphere of strong school unity, a sophomore, Monica Solomon, and a junior, Ann Drozyk, were elected to the traditionally all-senior Homecoming court. Senior members of the court included Wanda Elam, Nanci Jahant, Barb Maltarich and Kathy Lynch.

Ann Drozyk, junior member of the Homecoming court, and Joe Leskanic, senior escort, pass young Barlows to win first prize with their float at the 1970 Homecoming game.

Excitement is reflected in the smiles of two senior court members, Lorrie Scarpellini and penetrates the enemy defense. Bill Cornelius stands by ready to lend him assistance.

Contorted faces of Jere Crumrine and Bill Cornelius are implicit, as the two go high in the air, aspiring to steal a rebound from the grasp of the opponent.

The 1970-71 varsity basketball team was captained by Bill Cornelius and Bill Helmkamp, seniors. Regular forwards were Helmkamp, and seniors Rick Daly and Jere Crumrine. Playing at center was 6'5" Cornelius with Jack Fisher and Chris Becker, juniors, and senior Tom Flege at the ball-handling positions of guard.

A rotating captain idea was employed by the junior varsity. Paul Dorando served as center. Forwards were sophomores Greg Thurmond and Jim Pacenta, assisted by junior Tom Marks. Juniors Nick Mellion, Kevin Gannon and Tom Hadley played at the position of guard.

At the helm for the varsity team was Mr. Larry Naymik, assisted by the junior varsity coach, Mr. Terry O'Hare. In his first year of coaching basketball, Mr. Ralph Vallecorsa worked with the freshman team. Mr. Herb Lock was the official scorer.

Basketball: outlet for Irish power, enthusiasm

Determination marks Chris Becker's face as, catching his opponent off balance, he maneuvers in for a lay-up with his magical ball-handling, as Rick Daly arrives to assist.

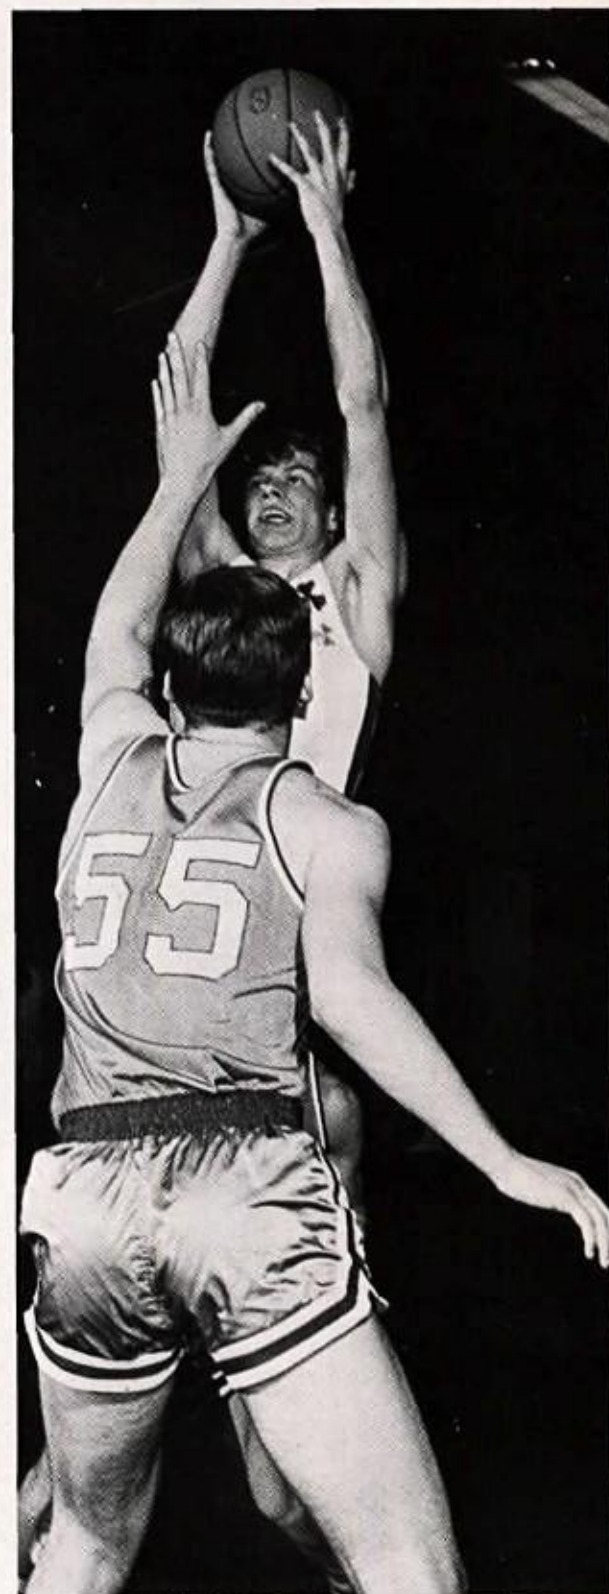

Bill Cornelius' "Mad Dog" defense earns for him the respect of yet another opponent.

"Not in your mouth!" senior Jere Crumrine counsels his fellow teammate, Rick Daly, as the latter emphasizes he has the ball after hauling down a rebound against Hoban.

Up, up, and away soars senior Bill Helmkamp skyward for a shot over a defender's arm.

In his first year at the helm of Irish basketball, Coach Naymik took the job in stride, learning first hand of the headaches and heartaches inherent in such a key position.

"What the heck . . . Oh my gosh . . . For cripe's sake . . ." — these and a few choice words express Mr. Naymik's sentiments as he is reluctantly captured on camera while being called for a technical for uttering sounds.

Roundballers terminate season with tenacity

Karate? No, just basketball. Senior Bruce Falb displays some of the defensive hustle that accounted for the opposition's low scores.

The elusive basketball evades the efforts of senior Tom Flege and a foe to bring it under control. The rest of the Irish Squad rushes to the scene to lend assistance.

Part of the depth of the Irish bench shown are Nick Mellion, Rick Daly, Tom Flege, Gary Inama, Jack Fisher, and Bruce Falb. They were heavily relied upon during the year.

Cornelius and Becker earn honorary berths

Jere Crumrine shoots high into the air to snare the loose basketball. Fellow seniors Bill Helmkamp and Bill Cornelius stand alert with anticipation for the coming pass-off.

The roundballers ended the regular season with a deceiving 11-7 record. Overcoming initial inexperience, the team came on strong in the latter half of the schedule to establish themselves as winners. The tenacity of the squad was evident in their many come-from-behind victories. An exception was the AA tournament defeat by city-champs, Akron South.

Bill Cornelius and Chris Becker, high scorers for the Irish, earned berths on the BJ teams. Cornelius was selected for the first team on the all-city squad, while Becker made the second team. In the all-county consideration, both players made second team. The senior and junior also nailed down third and fourth place respectively in the all-district teams.

successful season to wrestling annals

In the third tri-match of the year senior Joe DiFeo attempts to defeat his 167-pound opponent as he tries to work a fore-arm ride for a breakdown position for a pin.

"Hang on!" shouts Coach Brubach as he urges a grappler to hold for more riding time.

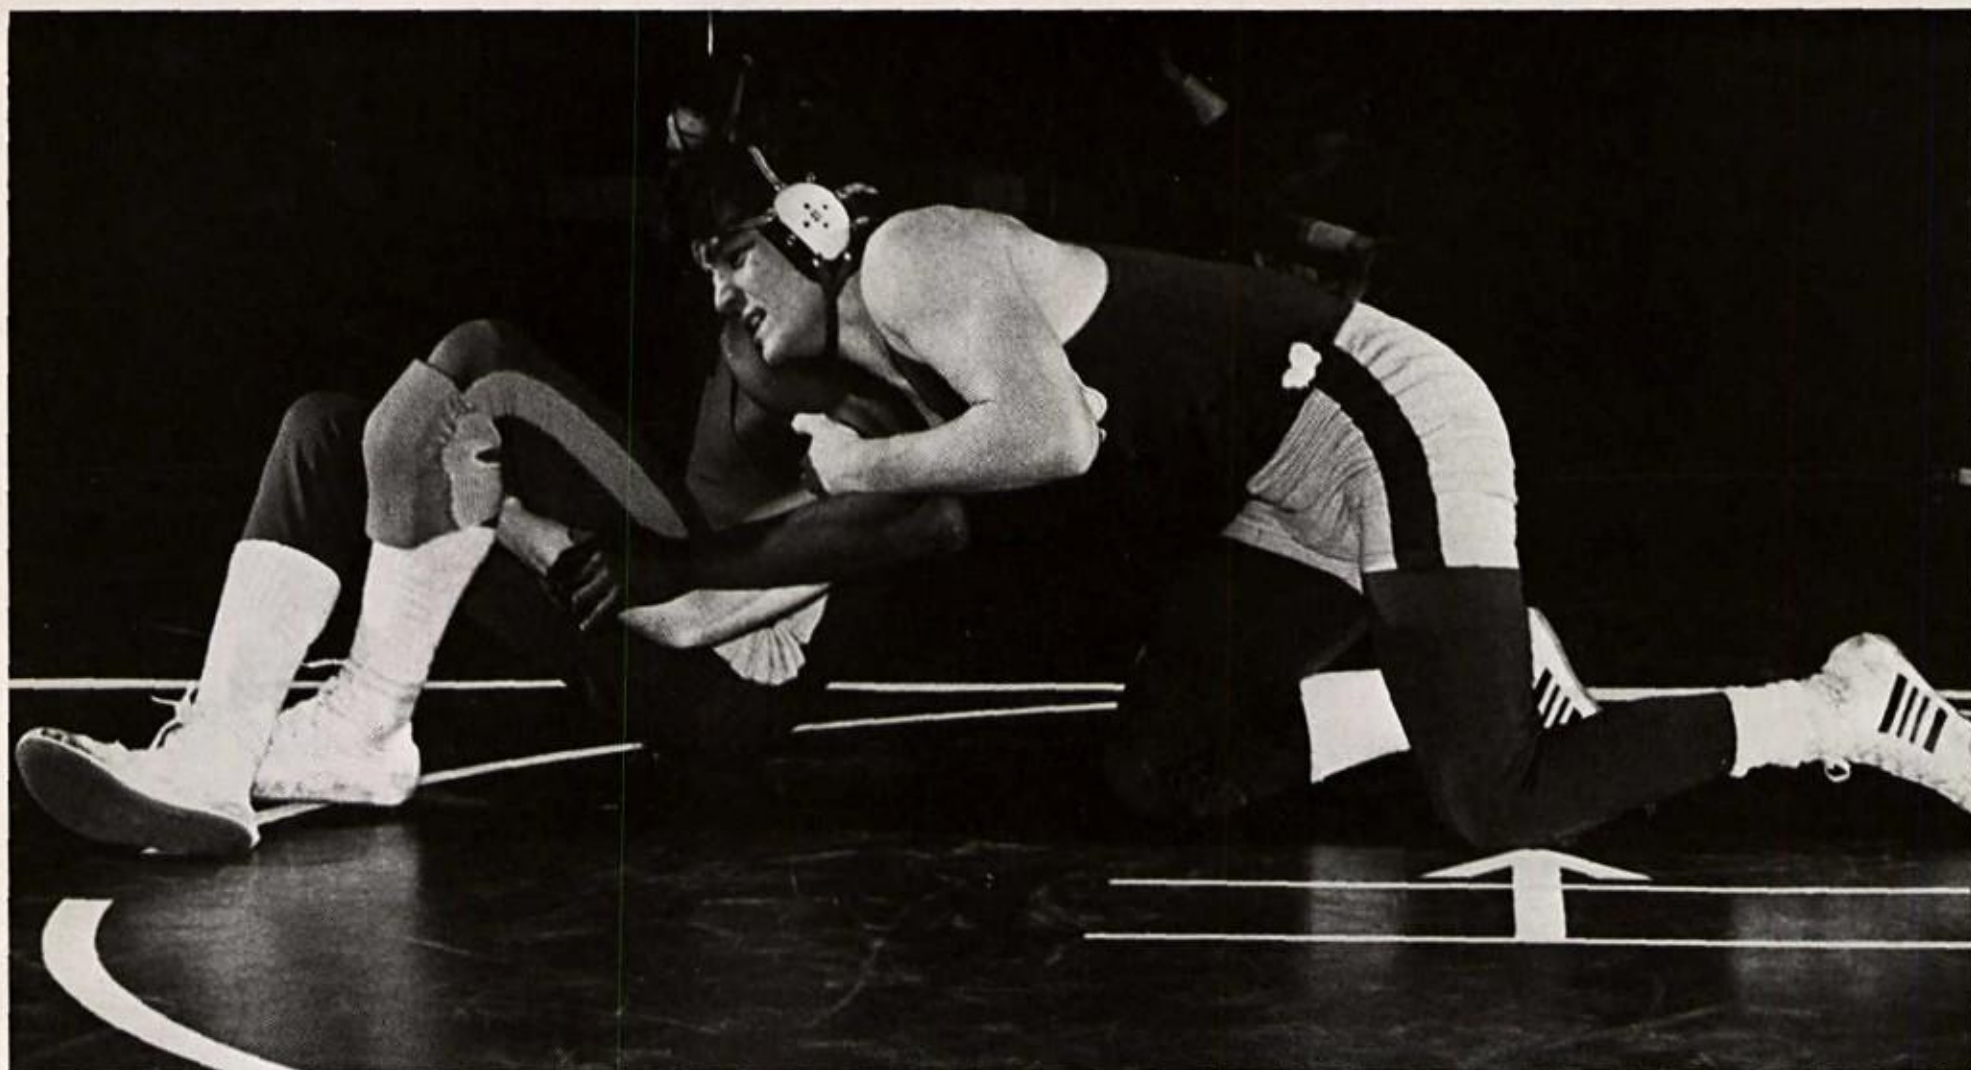

Rick Gromley, mighty senior grappler in the 185-pound classification, is in the process of putting in his Garfield opponent's legs in anticipation of a pinning victory.

By the halfway point of the season the grapplers had competed in two tough tournaments. The first one, in North Canton, saw St. V. finish third out of thirteen teams. Joe DiFeo retained his championship spot by winning the 167-pound class for the second consecutive season. Another first was scored by Tim Breiding, junior, credited with four pins. Senior Dane Griffith, heavyweight, placed second, while Rick Gromley, senior, and junior Mike Blank finished third.

In the C.I.T. in Toledo, facing much stronger competition, St. V.'s Irish finished seventh. Mike Blank came in second, while Jim DiFeo, sophomore, placed fourth. Senior Joe DiFeo scored high again to finish third.

Seven matmen place in district tourney

Junior Joe Marcius pins his opponent's arms back to maintain control and gain riding time. Joe, in his first varsity year, held his own in a tougher weight class.

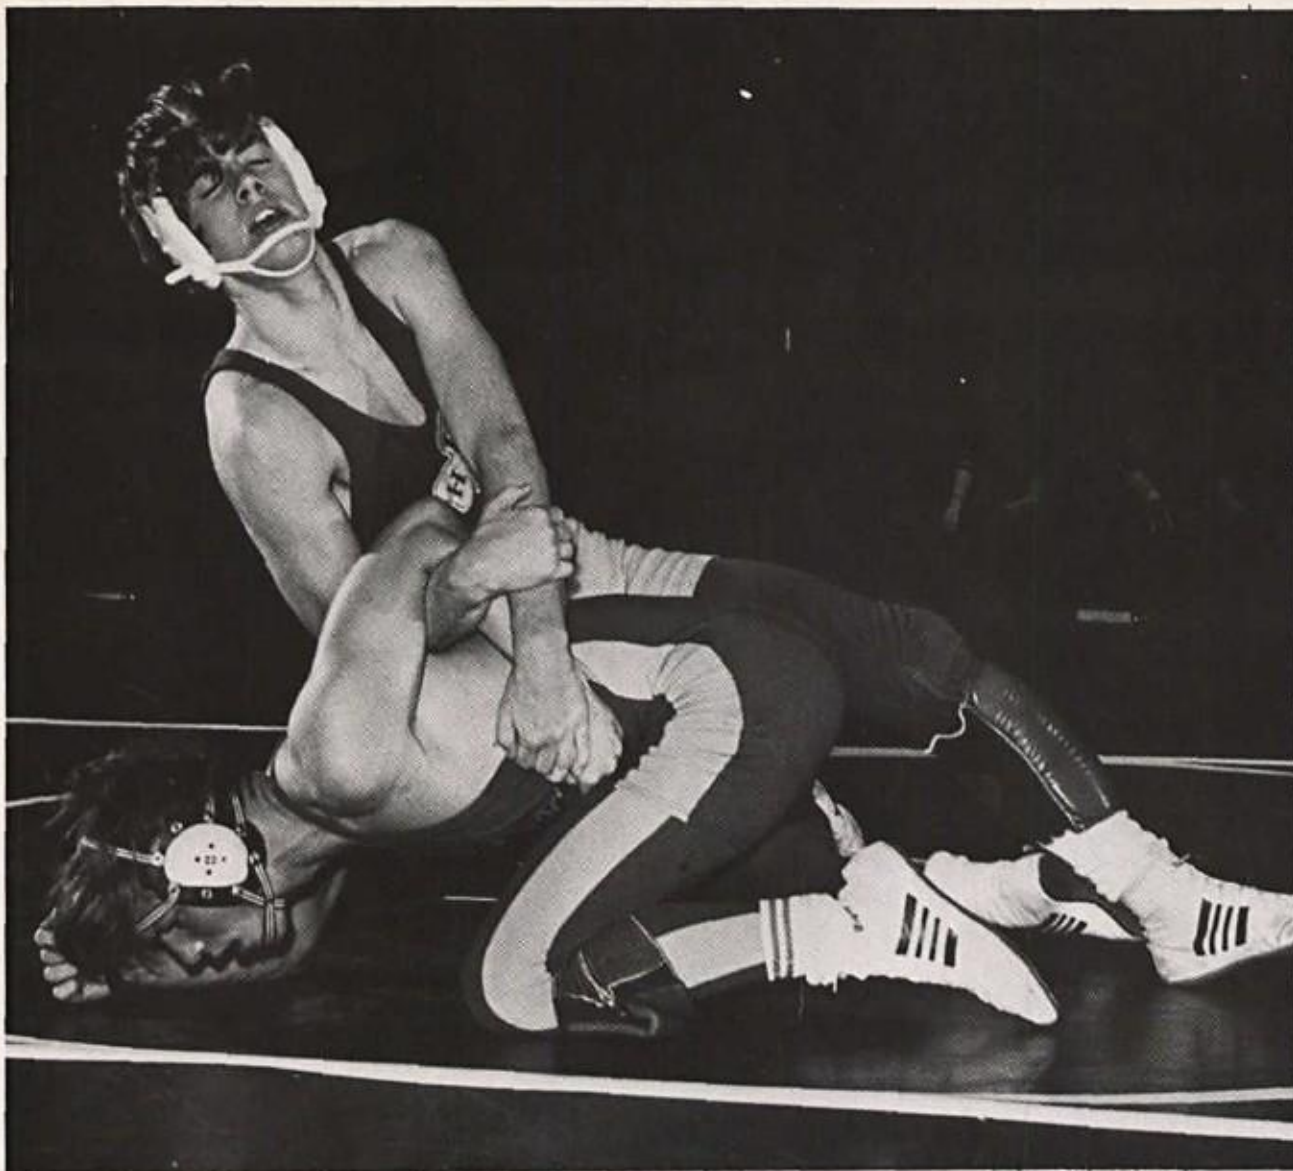

The St. Vincent wrestling dynasty was maintained for the seventh straight successful season under the guidance of Coach Brubach. The grapplers were looking forward to an undefeated season in match play until injuries cost them the Hoban and Walsh matches late in the year. As is tradition, the team was led by the four seniors. With seven returning lettermen, the loss of these four will not be so sorely missed next year.

The Irish wrestlers performed well in the State AA regional tournament. Seven grapplers advanced to the district: seniors Rick Gromley, Joe DiFeo, and Dane Griffith, juniors Mike Blank and Joe Marcius, sophomore Jim DiFeo and freshman Joe Morris. Joe DiFeo went on to a third place berth in the state tournament.

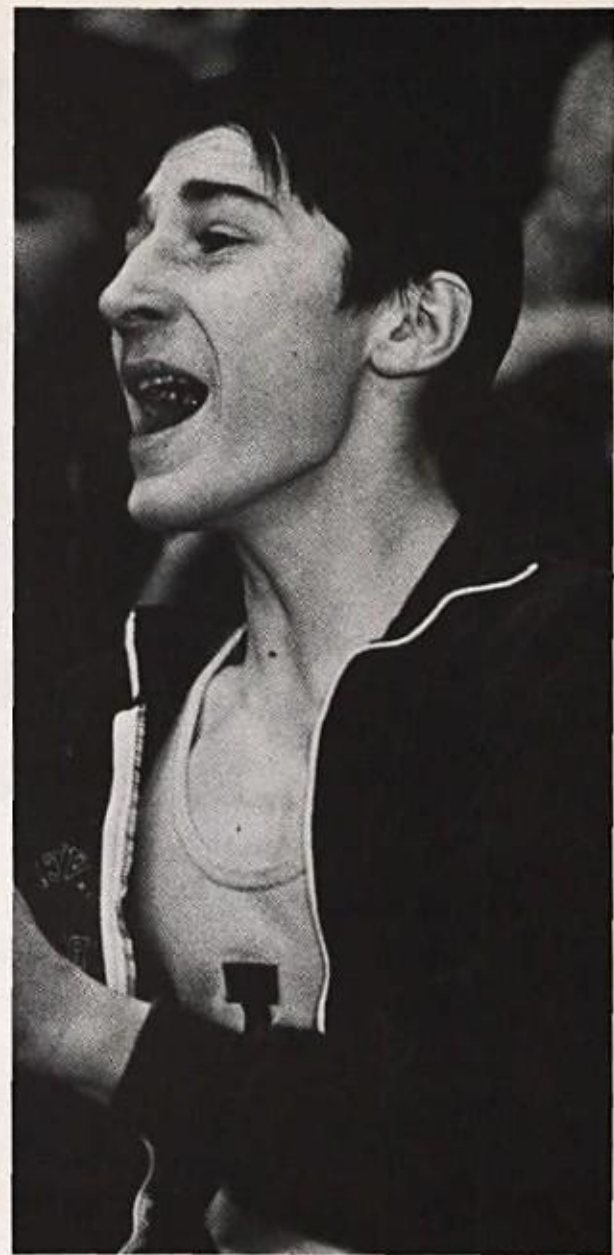

Congratulating junior Tony Bisesi as he comes off the mat victorious are fellow grapplers Jim DiFeo, Mike Maynard, Joe Staudt, senior Rick Gromley, and Dave Vinson.

Junior Joe Staudt skillfully rides his opponent with a crucifix — one of the more punishing moves in wrestling. Joe was one of seven boys who advanced to the districts.

Mike Maynard, junior, offers encouragement from the sidelines to a teammate on the mat.

Hard-working freshman Tim Quine, his countenance showing the punishment of the match, successfully holds his opponent to the mat with a cross-body hold around the waist.

Underclassmen spearhead Irish attack

The track team this year has met favorable success. The Irish, guided by underclassmen, finished with a 3-8 record. For the first time in a few years the team had the help of three coaches. Mr. O'Hare, the head coach, took care of the short distances and field events while Mr. Smith had the long distance runners. Mr. Lock helped out mainly with field events. Brian Williams, Jim Bouterse and Bill Johnson were the three captains of the team this year. The Irish finished fifth in the sectionals. Billy Mills, a sophomore, finished first in the 100 yard-dash and long jump. Other exceptional performances were turned in by junior Tim Bialy and Greg Thurmond, Chuck Monroe, Kim Wiolland, sophomores.

sion and co-ordination that is demanded in pole-vaulting competition.

Coach Father Don Cozzens anticipates a successful future for his tennis team next year. Though their season record was 3-12, the underclassmen hold great potential. Captained by senior Tim Gilbo and sparked by the talents of junior Joe Altier the team encountered strong opposition including powerful Kent State.

With the graduation of seniors Doug Bader, Mike Ochsenhirt and John Noethen, next year's team will be built around Chris Stuhldreher, Kevin Delagrange, Rick Stadelman, Pete Kalgreen, John Fickes, Altier.

State finals elude talented golf team

The 1971 Golf team includes B. Montabone, senior; Coach Phillip Kaufmann, seniors J. Reitenbach and Mike Johnson; sophomore B. Heffelman and junior Tom Begley.

Mr. Phil Kaufmann, head coach, led his golf team to their third consecutive winning season. They finished with a 10-6-2 record against rigorous competition. The team was sparked by the excellent play of ace Mike Johnson and the consistency of Bob Montabone. The golf team competed in this year's AA sectional and district tournaments where junior Tom Begley distinguished himself as runner-up medalist. The team missed going to state finals by one stroke.

Injuries thwart Irish baseball hopes

Ralph Vallecorsa. Not Pictured: Bill Helmkamp, Tom Enright. The team includes five returning seniors.

The 1971 Baseball team, plagued by the injuries of senior pitchers Bill Helmkamp and Tom Flege, experienced a disappointing season when they encountered such opposing teams as Firestone and Kenmore. Under Coach Ralph Vallecorsa the team held a city series record of 2-8 and an overall record of 3-13.

In his three years as St. Vincent Baseball Coach, Mr. Ralph Vallecorsa has successfully guided many promising players. He hopes for a better record next year.

SENIORS

Senior board's initiative and leadership promotes class unity, activity, and involvement

Continuing the practice begun a year ago, the seniors elected a board composed of five students, instead of traditional class officers. Chosen at the end of their junior year were Mark Sharnsky, Michelle Burg, Joe DiFeo, Charlette Roman, and Joe Mellion, pictured above. The board presided at meetings, planned and organized functions, and aided in the preparations for the senior trip and graduation.

Family Living Class domesticates girls

Domesticated by the course in family living, the senior girls profited from the knowledge they gained about marriage, budgeting, child care, and special skills, like crocheting.

Putting Christ back into Christmas was the prevailing attitude around St. Vincent during the holiday season. To help promote this Christmas spirit, senior students sponsored the annual Christmas program. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Cryder, the band and chorus performed their repertoire of religious and secular holiday songs, climaxed by Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." Providing the merriment was senior Bill Sparhawk as Santa Claus and his helpers, seniors Jere Crumrine, Doug Bader, Tim Welsh, and Dave Bertsch.

Providing lighter moments at the annual Christmas program were Santa Claus and his helpers as they joked and presented "gifts" to seniors Lana Johnson and Dane Griffith.

"Reflections" set the mood for the 1971 Sweetheart Dance. The brisk night had no effect on the warm atmosphere reflected in everyone's smiles. Giant heart and cupids suspended in mid-air helped to add to the romanticism of the evening.

All eyes were on the court as the queen, Eileen Lavery, was crowned by senior Nancy Anderson. Kitty Munka was the senior attendant. Juniors Evita Elam and Alexis Leone, sophomore Madeline Pfister and freshman Joy McFadden were Eileen's attendants. As the girls descended from a lamplit stairway into the spotlight, they met their escorts: seniors Tom Mosher, Jim Dages, and Mike Fry; juniors Greg Heislman and Gary Ross; sophomores Dan DeShon and Ed Carson.

The Social Center, laced with red hearts and flowers, provided the background as the Pat Hutch Five supplied versatile music for this semi-formal occasion.

Reigning at this year's Sweetheart Dance were Joy McFadden, Evita Elam, Kitty

Munka, Eileen Lavery as Queen, Nancy Anderson, Alexis Leone, and Madeline Pfister.

"Reflections" of an evening linger on

Transforming the social center into an enchanting place for young lovers was a rewarding experience for the decoration committee. Many couples reflected the mood.

Sharing a romantic moment are Regina Tobin, senior and her date Tom Johnson.

DiFeo and Blank merit wrestling honors

St. Vincent's grapplers upheld their name in the post-season wrestling competition. Junior Mike Blank placed fourth in the state AA district finals, and senior Joe DiFeo mounted to a first place finish.

Joe went on to Columbus where he earned a well-deserved third place in the state finals. Mike lost out on state action; only the first three in the district receive the honor of competing in Saint John's Arena.

Congratulating each other on their fine wrestling performances are senior Joe DiFeo (First in District, Third in State) and junior Mike Blank (Fourth in District).

Seniors win national recognition

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test was designed to measure a students' educational development. The test consists of four parts: English usage, mathematics usage, social studies and natural sciences, reading comprehension and word usage. NMSQT scores were used to select candidates for scholarship programs.

Nancy Maynard and Dave Bertsch were named semifinalists in the scholarship competition. The total number of Merit Program Semifinalists in each state was about one-half of one percent of the graduating high school seniors in that state. Becky DiAntonio received a Letter of Commendation from the Merit Program.

Seniors Nancy Maynard, Dave Bertsch and Becky DiAntonio discuss future plans. College is in their immediate goal as they were National Merit Scholarship winners.

Religion seminars make issues relevant

The senior religion courses were taught a little differently this year. Sr. Josette and Mr. Naymik, Senior religion teachers, collaborated to pick out current issues relevant to today's teens. The students then chose which interest groups they wanted to be in. They were then in charge of arranging various seminars on their topic. These seminars included guest speakers, films, and "rap sessions". Some of the topics included drugs, marriage, divorce, birth control, free love, abortion, racism, and the play-boy philosophy. Speakers came from a variety of professions, including doctors, lawyers, housewives, hippies, detectives, and former drug addicts. Reactions to the seminars were very good. The students thought they were interesting and felt they brought issues formerly out of their bounds closer to home.

Seniors Karen Bryson and Carole Lenihan stop to talk with Dr. Eugene Sawan after class. Dr.

Sawan is one of the many speakers who talked to the senior religion classes.

Seniors' last stop: New Orleans!

Twenty-three hours on a bus! Nobody knows what it's like until they've been through it. The seniors of '71 found out what it was like on class trip to New Orleans Easter week.

Riding a bus was having squirt-gun fights, bubble gum and coloring book contests, and singing camp songs. It was mostly being sore and sleepless!

The welcomed sight of New Orleans was rest and relief, but not for long. Activities included were bus touring, swimming, sight-seeing, shopping, and tossle-twirling, not to mention going to the parks, taking boat rides, and visiting famous Bourbon Street.

The week came to a fast close. And then the long journey homeward. A good time was had by all!

"Got ya!" says Basil Galati as his notorious comrades Andy Kalgreen, Jim Hart, Tom Poppenhouse, Tim Welsh and Joe Reitenbach enjoy the results and plan another attack.

I remember
Your bright smile,
Your flashing eyes
Always searching
For life, your
Saddle buck shoes.

I remember
Your enthusiasm for Friends, especially
Your grappler friends.

You have left with me
A desire to smile,
No matter how I feel,
To share myself and all I am
With others.

You have left with me
The hope for
A homecoming of happiness
For you and all of us.

Until then . . .

I only want for you
What will make you glad
To wake each morning
And face the sunshine
With purpose and a smile.

I only want for you
Someone to really care,
To always be at your side,
To help you when you need it,
And even when you think you don't.

I only want for you
The chance to reach your goals
And the wisdom to set them high,
To keep striving to never give up.

I only want for you a heart filled
With dreams and expectations,
For hope can be your brightest light
Through the darkest pathway.

It is the SEASON OF HOPE.

I have in my grasp
Potential to be
What I wish to be.

The path I choose
May not be wide.
I may fall, but
I must go forward.

I may find the way
To be filled with Disappointments.
Obstacles
May hinder me.

I must push
Them aside
And do my part
To make
A better world,
Not choosing
The easiest way,
But accepting the Challenge of now.

For it is the
SEASON OF HOPE.
